Lifetime Achievement Awards: Game changer events or people that made downtown what it is:

2016 - Ken McKenzie - For decades he gave his time and energy to our organization and tirelessly supported the efforts to make downtown Tempe a vibrant place. He also answered the call each and every time we called asking for a donation of space or meals or hotel rooms. In the last year Ken McKenzie stepped off our board of directors as he is now working in Scottsdale, but his spirit of community is carried on by the current team at Mission Palms.

2016 - ASU School of Architecture - For a project that was quite literally a game changer for downtown Tempe and this region. Jim Elmore, who was the founding Dean of the School of Architecture at ASU, suggested in Fall of 1966 to a group of 16 students that they should “do something with the river.” He guided these students through extensive studies, research, community interviews, site surveys and ultimately models of Tempe Town Lake were presented to the community and City Leaders. The first go round, voters shot down the aggressive Rio Salado Project, but then Mayor Harry Mitchell only became more determined to see the project come to fruition. After countless studies, negotiations and analysis, the project was completed and Tempe Town Lake filled with water in July 1999, 33 years after it was originally conceived. James Elmore passed away in 2007 at 90 years of age.
