Why did The Carlyle Group establish an office in Rosslyn?

We were starting to outgrow our offices on Pennsylvania Avenue and needed expansion space for more than 200 employees. Rosslyn was an ideal choice for us. We wanted to be near our headquarters in Washington, given the extent to which Carlyle professionals work together and commute between offices. Also, it was important to be near public transportation and easily accessible by car to ensure everyone had manageable commutes.

Did Rosslyn's culture play into the decision at all?

We try to be thoughtful about benefits and other factors that affect people's employment decisions. Office location is one of those factors. Rosslyn has a growing amenity base, which means it's emerging as a hip area, and a highly coveted neighborhood in which to work and live.
